

PROFESSIONAL LOUDSPEAKERS

FitalPRO at Infocomm, Orlando 15-17th June 2011

Visitors to Infocomm Orlando Florida (15-17th June 2011) this year will find FitalPRO at Booth # 632 of the Audio Pavilion.

The famous Italian professional loudspeaker manufacturer with plants and research & development centre at the doors of Milan will be showing a wide variety of professional audio components for sound reinforcement to the live sound and installation market.

The place to go is Orange County Convention Center, West Building, Orlando, Florida USA.

This trade fair is the chance for the entire world of audiovisual communications to come together, and InfoComm 2011 is the chance for businesses to see altogether the technology, solutions, education and most recent advancements available for application in real world environments.

Here gather the cutting edge of 3D, audio, digital signage, telepresence & conferencing, projection, and lighting & staging. Plus new applications for business and IT, government, education, healthcare, hospitality and worship. With 32,000 professionals and 950 exhibitors—and again experts in 300+ seminars, this is due to be as the official organization declares “the largest, most comprehensive pro-AV event in the world”.

Please take this opportunity to come visit FitalPRO. Existing business partners will learn of new advancements and product categories. New clients will come away with a true understanding why FitalPRO is not another loudspeaker manufacturer but the best loudspeaker manufacturer in the industry today. From “Environmental Impervious” audio components to the method in which they are validated and then manufactured on exclusive automated robotic production lines. Learn for yourself what the buzz is all about with this recent entry brand name into the Pro Audio market. Established in 1958, close to 1000 employees and delivering in excess of 20 million audio components each year, it’s clear FitalPRO is the one to watch, catch and incorporate into your enclosure designs.

Keith Gronsbell, North American Sales, FitalPRO Division, Fital Spa declares: “Our focus and goal is to continue keeping our finger on the pulse of the market, especially the professional audio component requirements of our current, in process and future long term business partners. We will be showing a few recently unveiled new models to verify our commitment to bringing the latest technologies and process into the global loudspeaker industry.

I believe the point of us being there is paramount as none of our direct competitors that service OEM and secondary distribution will be exhibiting at Infocomm. Out of sight, out of mind..."

Flavio Naggi, Overseas Sales Manager says: "FaitalPRO continues to grow at a feverish pace and are adapting our facilities to ensure on time delivery as well as meet some clients requirements without missing a beat. We generally attend all the most important trade fairs in the world, and again at Infocomm we are showing all our latest trends and super products in a compact booth: please feel free to just pop in at any time and take a 360° tour, or reserve a chat with me or Keith, on a dedicated explanation on some of our new drivers."
